MATTER OF LOCATION NOT AN ISSUE

Committee Will Start to Des Moines Tonight to Promote the Interests of the Great Transmississippi Show.

The city of Council Bluffs officially recogn'zed the proposed Transmississ'ppi exposition last night and took action in the direction of the promotion of the project by askmorning from Ottawa, Kan., where she has been with her brother, S. W. Day, through make an appropriation for a state exhibit at the exposition in Omaha in 1898.

Early in the history of the movement in favor of the exposition those who were urging the matter in Council Bluffs became imbued with the idea that the location of the exposition grounds was the most important feature of the show, so far as this city was concerned, and secured the adoption of resolutions declaring in favor of the location of the exposition at East Omaha and opposing an appropriation for an lowa exhibit if the exposition were located elsewhere. Investigation has made evident the fact that the particular site selected for the exposition is really of minor importance when compared with the immense benefits to be derived by Council Bluffs and Iowa from the successul consummation of the exposition idea and the city council adopted resolutions endors-ing the idea and asking the state legislature to make an appropriation for the purpose of at the first regular meeting of the new properly representing Iowa in the proposed council Monday night, when he will anproperly representing Iowa in the proposed exposition. This action of the council was taken at a special meeting held last night. There were present from Omaha, representing the Omaha directory of the exposition society, G. W Wattles, John A. Wakefield, G. M. Hitch-cock, Z. T. Lindsey, Dan Farrell and George H. Payne. After the council had been called o order the resolution endorsing the project was read. COMMITTEE WORK REVIEWED. George F. Wright made a brief address, in which he reviewed the work of the commit-tees that had been considering the propositions. He said he had become impressed with the importance of the prestige that would be given the movement if the Iowa legislature should make an appropriation for an exhibition at the exposition and of the weight it would have in securing national recognition of the enterprise. He was anxious that the council listen to the statements of the case by members of the Omaha directory, and called upon G. W. Wattles to ddress the council. Mr. Wattles said that the exposition had been located in Omaha by the Transmissis-slppi congress. It was not an Omaha expostion nor a Council Biuffs exposition, but was an enterprise for the good of the entire western country. The men who composed the directory had been selected by the people of Omaha and had laid aside their personal prejudices and personal benefits and were working for the success of the project without reference to any one section or any one set of people. The project was one that had grown on the committee. When it was remembered that two-thirds of the territory, one-third of the population, and one-half of the wealth of the nation was represented in the Transmississippi region it could be imagined what a proper exposition of the region's resources would mean. He believed that the exposition, properly carried out, would be one of the greatest enterprises the west had ever seen. He cited figures of expositions held in other cities of the world with the attendance at each and said a conservative estimate would place the attendance at the Omaha exposition at 5,000,000. The benefits, direct and indirect, that would

He spoke of Iowa's direct interest in the project. The question of location, he said. project. was one that could not be discussed until project had been settled. It would require he people of Omaha and Nebraska to raise at least $500,000, and this money should raised before any question of location should be considered. The present directory was not pledged to any location, had not discussed any location and would not do so until the money problem had been settled. He asked co-operation of the council in furthering the project. G. M. Hitchcock was called upon and spoke enthusiastically of the scope of the work. He had recently made a trip through the west and was more than ever with the wonderful wealth of the transmis sissippi country, and said an exposition such as planned would rivet the attention of the world on the great west and would turn the channel of commerce in this direction and would inure to the everlasting benefit of the people of the transmississippi country.

PROVOKED ENTHUSIASM. A. Wakefield of Omaha uncolked a good deal of enthusiasm and told the council and the comnittees that the more they looked around he more satisfied they were that they had milded wisely so far in laying the foundations for the great exposition. The exposi-tion idea was one of the features of the times. Half a dozen expositions had been sterted, but all but the Transmississippi project had been abandoned, largely for the reason that their promoters had not begun right. The Texas, St.

'In our scheme we have the home en-dorsement and are morally sure of the national. The only step that remains to be taker to make the foundations of the great enterprise impregnable is to procure the financial endorsement of the great state of Iowa. If we can induce the Iowa legislature to make an appropriation, even though it be small, with a promise that $50,000 or more will follow, it will knock the legs from beneath Chairman Dingley's objections to the con-gressional bill."

Spencer Smith said he had been out of the city all winter and knew less than he should about the contemplated enterprise, but if he ever had any doubts about its feasibility they were removed. He thought it unfortunate that the matter of asking an appro riation from the Iowa legislature had been delayed to so late a date.

TIME VERY SHORT. The time was short when any action could be taken. The appropriation committees had finished their work and made their reports and he feared that it would be extremely difficult to get them to consider any new propositions to take money from the state treasury. This was particularly the case since the appropriations already reached nearly $1,500,000, and all of the state institutions were begging and praying for addi tional sums. He urged that whatever action was taken that it should be taken at once.
Alderman Casper moved that the report of the committee be adopted. It was seconded and carried unanimously.

George F. Wright speke of the importance f having the Iowa legislature make the necessary appropriation, which was the only sort of recognition that would satisfy Chair-man Dingley. A carload of resolutions would do no good unless the right sort of commit-tee was sent to Des Moines to present them and urge the necessity for prompt action. That committee should consist of at least seven men, and they should be representative men and real workers. As vice presiden tive men and real workers. As vice president of the executive committee for Iowa, which would be the banner state in the group, he would consent to be a member of the Des Moines committee, and he thought Mayor

Carson should be another.

After nominating himself and the mayor
he thought the other members should be named by members of the council. Alderman Pace then took the responsibility of naming the mayor, George P. Wright, Spencer Smith, I. M. Treynor, T. C. Dawson, R. J. Clancey and T. J. Evans. At the suggestion of Alder-man Shubert the members of the Omaha ex-

MEETING OF TEACHERS OVER. Session of Yesterday Conclude a Profitable Convention.

The most successful session of the Southwestern Iowa Teachers' association yet held was concluded yesterday afternoon by the an follows: business session of the association held at the Presbyterian church.

Before the opening exercises yesterday morning the High School cadets gave an exhibition drill on the street in front of church, which was witnessed and enjoyed by the visiting teachers and a very large num-ber of Council Bluffs citizens. The performance of the cadets was remarkably creditable, and drew man; expressions of con-gratulation from the visitors,

The work of the association yetserday was divided into departments. The school officers and city superintendents held a session at the Presbyterian church auditorium, while the lecture rooms of the same church was occupied by the department that discussed graded and high schools. Rural schools were discussed by a meeting at the First Baptist church. All of the papers in the various departments were exceedingly interesting and the discussions varied and full of spirit.

The business session of the association was held at the Presbyterian church in the afternoon. A paper on the "Educative Value and Methods of History Teaching" was read by C. C. Carstens of Creston, and discussed by Miss Kelso of Atlantic and Prof. Hisey of Kansas City. Miss Alice E. Hopper exposed

"I had been badly affected by catarrh for six years, and during that time no one can tell how I suffered. My throat was sore, dry and tender; at times it pained me greatly, and there was a tickling and roughness that was very annoying. I was hoarse, and at times nearly lost my voice. Every time I took a slight cold I was much worse. My nose was so stopped up I could hardly breathe; by severe blowing I could get it open, but it soon would become closed again. I had to breathe through my mouth, which dried my tongue and throat, My head ached almost constantly and made me sick. I suffered greatly in this way. Pains—dull or sharp—were nearly always present.

"The catarrh poison seemd to affect me all through, blunting the senses, ruining my digestion and giving me afeeling of half sickness all the time." Three years are a lested in this sickness all the time:
"Three years ago I stated in this paper that Drs. Copeland and Shepard cured me by a short course of treatment at a slight cost. What I said then I now repeat. I want my friends to know all about my case, that hey may benefit by my exprise."

"Most people seem to regard catarrh as merely a running nose with phlegm in the throat. I used to have that idea myself, but I know better now, "Something like ten years ago I began to fail. I'll just tell how I went down. At first my head felt full of pain, with a sore throat and a nose that always filled with mucus. White, cankered spots came on my tonsils, eating holes in them until they looked like honeycomb. I could scarcely swallow from pain and swelling. I always felt a dripping of phlegm from the head into my stomach, which soon began to feel heavy and distressed. I had frequent cramps and spat up a white, foamy fluid that was sour and bitter. I lost all natural appetite for food.

"Pretty soon I began to feel nervous. The least thing would startle and confuse me. I felt pains in the back and shoulders, with light chills and flashes of heat, fol-Office Hours—9 to 11 a. m; 2 to 5 p. m. Evenings—Wednesdays and Saturdays only, 6 to 8. Sunday—10 to 12 m.
